

A Deduction on the Stock Market and Gambling

P1 (First Premise): If a person knowingly enters into an affair with a doubtful positive outcome, they are, metaphorically speaking, gambling.

P2 (Second Premise): Speculative stock market transactions made without analysis and risk consideration are knowingly entering into affairs with doubtful positive outcomes.

C (Conclusion): Therefore, speculative stock market transactions without analysis are, metaphorically speaking, gambling.